

RELIGIOUS ETHICS AREA REQUIREMENTS

Description

The Religious Ethics area is concerned with the meaning of religion for the lives of persons and the ordering of societies, and, therefore, with problems of the good life, justice, and the common good. Study in the history and methods of religious and non-religious ethics is essential to work in the area. The examination of specific moral problems and the study of comparative religious ethics require work in the relevant social and historical sciences or in the professions. Students are thereby encouraged to pursue work in pertinent areas of the University outside of the Divinity School.

Statement of Written and Oral Examinations

A student concentrating in Religious Ethics will take three examinations in the area, including at least two of the following: RE I: Philosophical Ethics; RE II: Theological Ethics; RE III: Ethics and Political Life. The student must select another, third examination from those offered by the Area.

A student concentrating in Religious Ethics will submit for the oral examination a 20-25 page paper which typically engages one major thinker, relevant primary materials, and also important secondary scholarship with respect to a question pertinent to the student's scholarly aspirations. This paper should, accordingly, explicate and assess the thinker(s) chosen and also advance, through that engagement, a constructive argument on the question. The paper should be distributed to examiners at least two weeks prior to the oral examination.

The distinctive business of the oral examination is to engage the submitted paper and pursue other lines of inquiry, especially, but not limited to, the written examinations.

Qualifying Examinations in Religious Ethics

Religious Ethics I: Philosophical Ethics
Religious Ethics II: Theological Ethics
Religious Ethics III: Ethics and Political Life
Religious Ethics IV: Ethics and the Social Sciences
Religious Ethics V: Comparative Religious Ethics
Religious Ethics VI: Moral Problems

Examination Bibliographies

RELIGIOUS ETHICS I: PHILOSOPHICAL ETHICS

This examination asks the student to demonstrate knowledge of major historical writings in Western philosophical ethics. In Part A, students are responsible for representative figures in the history of philosophical ethics, as specified below. In Part B, students are responsible for the ethics of three recent authors. The three figures chosen by the student must be approved by the examiner. The list of thinkers under Part B is illustrative; the student may propose an alternative figure or figures.

Part A:

Plato	The Republic
Aristotle	Nichomachean Ethics
Aquinas	Summa Theologiae . I-I, QQ. 1-25; I-II, QQ. 49-89, 90-108.
Hobbes	Leviathan
Hume	Inquiry Concerning the Principles of Morals
Mill	Utilitarianism On Liberty
Kant	Foundations of the Metaphysics of Morals
Hegel	Natural Law
Sidgwick	Methods of Ethics or
Moore	Principia Ethica

Part B:

Karl-Otto Apel
Hannah Arendt
John Dewey
Alan Gewirth
Jurgen Habermas
R. M. Hare
William James
Emmanuel Levinas
Alasdair MacIntyre
Iris Murdoch
John Rawls
Paul Ricoeur
Jean Paul Sartre
Alfred North Whitehead

RELIGIOUS ETHICS II: THEOLOGICAL ETHICS

This examination has three parts constituted by major "periods" of the history of theological ethics. The core of the examination bibliography is the development and differentiation of Christian moral thinking. However, classic texts are set within and compared with the complexity of other traditions (philosophical, Jewish, Islamic) that intersect and often collide throughout the centuries of Western ethics. The examination thereby has an explicit comparative dimension and purpose.

The student is responsible for each of the parts of the examination. While the first two parts of the examination form a "set" exam with identical questions for all takers, the third part is "specialized" in accordance with each student's choice of two thinkers. Questions covering the bibliography in Parts I and II may be either from within each period or call for relating writings from different periods. Questions covering authors from Part III will be developed in accordance with the student's choice of readings and long terms scholarly interests.

RELIGIOUS ETHICS III: ETHICS AND POLITICAL LIFE

This examination asks the student to demonstrate knowledge of historical and contemporary theories in Western theology and political philosophy concerning the origin, ends, and legitimation of political communities. Special attention will be paid to the role religion plays in a particular thinker's vision of political life. Is religion a core or peripheral value? Does religion offer specific legitimation of the ends of political life as well as its limits? Is politics central to human flourishing? What is the relationship of the religious order to the political order? And so on.

Students must have a command of the following texts or selections from texts.

Plato,	The Republic
Aristotle,	The Politics Nichomachean Ethics, V
Augustine,	The City of God, Pt.II,Bks.XI,XIV,XV,XIX,XX The Confessions
